

81 Reds Die In U.S. Trap In S. Vietnam

Enemy Troops Are Lured Into Crossing
Cambodian Border

SAIGON (AP)—American forces lured Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops out of Cambodian sanctuaries today, then mowed them down with artillery, dive-bombers and helicopter gunships, U.S. officers said.

The two-hour battle 30 miles northwest of Saigon was the only significant ground action reported by the U.S. and allied commands as thousands of American troops prepared to celebrate Easter. There were 20 overnight rocket and mortar attacks across the country and three U.S. aircraft were shot down.

About 500 infantrymen of the U.S. 25th Division sprung the border trap on 500 men of the Viet Cong's 9th Division, most of them North Vietnamese soldiers. Spokesmen said 81 enemy were killed at a cost of four Americans killed and 13 wounded.

Enemy Enticed

Officers said Maj. Gen. Ellis Williamson, commander of the 25th Division, enticed the enemy to cross the Cambodian border into South Vietnam by establishing an artillery and patrol base just across from the enemy's Angel's Wing sanctuary.

Less than 24 hours later the enemy soldiers, camouflaged with rice straw on their backs, launched their attack across paddies under cover of a heavy mortar barrage.

But the Americans were waiting. When the enemy troops got within 30 yards of the fire base, two 105mm howitzers lowered their barrels and opened fire with deadly shrapnel shells, while two helicopter gunships and dive-bombers sprayed from above with machine guns.

Military spokesmen said sunrise Easter services Sunday would be limited to small congregations in the battle zones, to avoid providing large targets for the enemy.

Easter Message

Lt. Gen. Frank T. Mildren, deputy commanding general of the 360,000 U.S. Army troops in Vietnam, said in an Easter message:

"Our ultimate goal is to bring peace and freedom to this land torn with grief and destruction," he said. "While undertaking this mission we are also safeguarding the very freedom that has contributed so greatly to our heritage."

Night Factory Workers Mr. and Mrs. Larry Faust of Chilton, were sleeping late Friday morning in this room when a flash fire broke out in their home, causing the death of one of their sons. Children's screams awoke the couple and they tried to rescue all the children but were overcome by smoke. (Connors Photo)

Child Dead in Chilton

Marshal to Probe Fire

CHILTON — A state fire marshal was called in Friday night to investigate the cause of a late Friday morning blaze that swept through the Larry Faust home and left one child dead.

Dead on arrival at Calumet Memorial Hospital was George, the three-year-old son of the Fausts, who live at 109 Chestnut Street, Calumet County Coroner Leroy Hughes attributed death to asphyxiation from smoke inhalation.

Reported in fair condition, but "improving" at the hospital this morning were Faust, 22; his expectant wife, Beverly, 20; their sons, Jesse, 1, and Larry, Allen, 4; and Mrs. Faust's father, George Leiskau, 61.

Second Alarm Calls Firemen

CHILTON — While firemen were battling the blaze that gutted the Larry Faust home, they received an alarm on a fire that caused thousands of dollars to damage to the home of Charles Smith, 12 Lehner St.

Two of the four trucks at the Faust residence were sent to the Smith blaze. Most of the damage was from smoke and water, and no one was injured.

The cause still has not been determined, according to firemen.

mined what caused the flash fire.

Faust gave this account of the tragedy to Police Chief Dan Albedyll. He and his wife, both factory workers who got home from their night shift jobs at 1 a.m. were sleeping late. Faust said he awakened at about 9 a.m., checked the children, and went back to sleep.

He was awakened later by a loud noise and children's screams. He and his wife dashed for the kitchen where the children were playing and were confronted by smoke and flames. Faust broke out windows in an attempt to clear the house of smoke, then grabbed Larry and took him outside.

Collapses in Kitchen
Faust thought his wife followed him outside but she apparently collapsed on the kitchen floor. She was taken from the building by a passing truck driver, according to reports.

Faust attempted to re-enter the house but was driven back by the smoke and flames. He was found lying on the lawn unconscious by firemen, who entered the building and carried Jessie and Leiskau to safety.

The elderly man, who lived in the home's second floor rooms, was found on the dining room floor and Jessie was on his bedroom floor.

The dead boy was found lying in his crib in a bedroom near the kitchen.

Fire Chief Norbert Sturm said the fire apparently started in the kitchen near the gas stove. The exact origin of the blaze has not been determined.

Crowds Kept Away

As a precaution against a possible gas leak, curious crowds were kept from the house and crews from Wisconsin Public Service Corp. were

Houston Surgeons Do Historic Operation

Skokie Man Gets Mechanical Heart

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An artificial heart made of fabric and plastic functioned today in the chest of a 47-year-old man, the first recipient of such a device.

A surgical team headed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley performed the three-hour operation Friday at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital.

The recipient, Haskell Karp of Skokie, Ill., was in satisfactory condition after physicians removed his ailing heart and replaced it with the mechanical device.

Can Work Indefinitely

Cooley, who has performed 18 human heart transplant operations, more than any other surgeon, said the device "is built in a way that it could work indefinitely" but emphasized it will be used only until a donor can be found for a human heart transplant operation. The body of a Cleveland, Tex. woman who died in childbirth was brought to Houston as a potential donor. The woman's heart was maintained by a respirator but ceased to function a few blocks from St. Luke's.

Karp, father of three children, was conscious two hours after the operation and responded to commands to raise and lower his hands and open and close his eyes, the spokesman said.

Cost of $5,000

Made of Dacron fabric and a plastic, the artificial heart has four valves and four chambers like a human heart and is about the same size. It is tied to a nearby electronic power source that maintains its pumping action.

Cooley said the artificial heart

Christians Set To Celebrate Joys of Easter

Pilgrims Jam Rome, the Holy Land

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pope Paul VI will light a Paschal candle at a vigil service today as Christians around the world prepare to celebrate the resurrection of Christ.

Thousands of pilgrims, who have been clogging the streets of Rome for the past few days, were expected in St. Peter's Basilica to join with the pontiff in the vigil and the mass of joy commemorating the end of Christ's entombment.

Meanwhile, vestments were set aside for the Pope to change into during today's ceremony after removing his purple robes. This signifies the end of mourning for the death of Christ on Good Friday and the coming of Easter.

Holy Land Pilgrims

In the Holy Land 1,000 pilgrims were gathered in Jerusalem for vigil services at the 400-year-old Church of the Holy Sepulchre, which tradition holds is the site of Christ's tomb.

It was the second Holy Week in Jerusalem under Israeli rule and it passed as peacefully as any other. White-capped security guards mingled with the crowd, thinned by the absence of Arab pilgrims who used to throng the city when it was divided under Jordanian and Israeli rule. The Israelis captured it during the June 1967 war with the Arabs.

In Vietnam, chaplains in combat fatigues visited jungle outposts to conduct services for American servicemen.

In the United States, millions of persons prepared to attend vigil or pre-dawn Easter services, many of them in outdoor arenas.

As thousands of college students romped on beaches from California to Florida, women were shopping to put final touches on their Easter outfits and children were dyeing eggs in preparation for egg hunts.

Airports, railroad and bus terminals and highways were jammed with travelers on week-end trips or beginning spring vacations.

In Lititz, Pa., a trombone choir from the Moravian Congregation paraded through the streets at 3 a.m. to wake the townspeople for the 5 a.m. service at God's Acre, a cemetery site.

Many of the services will include dramatic presentations. A cast of 4,000 persons in Marion, Ind., will reenact the events in the last week of Christ's life while another 6,000 persons look on.

In southwest Oklahoma, near Lawton, a cast of 500 were to present "Love One Another," drawn from the 15th verse, 17th Avenue Easter parade.

Soviet Retribution Due

Sharp Rebuke for Czech Journalists

PRAGUE (AP)—Top Communist leaders sharply rebuked Czechoslovak Journalists Union today for resisting the new Soviet-dictated crackdown on the occupied nation's news media.

Rude Pravo, organ of the Czechoslovak Communist party, published a statement of the eight-member Executive Committee of the party Presidium attacking the journalists' stand against censorship that was imposed after anti-Soviet demonstrations last weekend.

The Executive Committee "rejects in principle the statement of the Union of Czechoslovak Journalists, condemns its irresponsible approach to serious problems and the present crisis situation," the statement said.

"High Responsibility"

It added that the party "deems it necessary to take steps which will lead to restoring the high responsibility of mass media toward the sovereign interests of socialism in our country and toward the community of socialist states."

The Czechoslovak leaders' statement said fairly the attitude of the journalists "can be objectively assessed as a protection of antisocialist forces." This is a serious charge in the present Czechoslovak crisis, with the Prague government under severe pressure from Moscow to curb anti-Communism and anti-Soviet feelings produced by the August 1968 invasion.

The party chiefs also accused the journalists union of attempting to weaken party authority by expressing support for only five members of the leadership — First Secretary Alexander

King Memorialized In Countless Talks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the first anniversary of his assassination, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was memorialized in services, marches and vigils across the nation. Speakers pleaded for a rededication to his battle for human rights.

The observances Friday in hundreds of towns and cities were peaceful. But in Memphis, Tenn., where King was killed on April 4, 1968, a mass march was taken as an opportunity by vandals to smash store windows.

A curfew ordered by Mayor Henry Loeb and cool rain emptied the streets during the night. Police had arrested more than 70 persons by midnight for curfew violations, looting, burglary and assault.

Camp in Field

In Montgomery, Ala., several thousand Negroes camped through the night in a huge field behind a Roman Catholic school. They were waiting the start of a march on the State Capitol today in memory of King.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was to lead the march. He headed the services for King in Memphis Friday.

The day passed calmly in Chicago, the only other city where mourning was marred by violence. There were outbreaks in two neighborhoods Thursday by groups of Negro youths.

Police and 5,000 National Guardsmen stood by in case of further trouble but only one minor shooting incident was reported.

Follow Nonviolence

The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Sr., speaking at a special Good Friday service in suburban Evanston, called on blacks and whites to follow the nonviolent principles of his son.

"Violence gains nothing," the elder King said. "Good men will always be opposed to looting, killing and rioting. We must strive continually for peace, justice and fair play."

President Nixon sent a message of condolence to Dr. King's widow, Coretta, in Atlanta, which was delivered by Robert

Traffic Jam

One dark night, a truck and a car meet on a bridge that is so narrow they cannot pass each other, nor can they turn around. The car is twice as far on the bridge as the truck, but it has taken the truck twice as long as the car to reach this point on the bridge. Both the car and the truck can travel in reverse at only 1/2 their forward speed. Which of them should back up to allow both to cross the bridge in the shortest time?

Answer

The car should back up. Solve this by using a hypothetical distance of 30 miles across the bridge, with the two vehicles meeting after the car has traveled 20 miles in one hour and the truck 10 miles in 2 hours.

Ike Was Determined Nothing Could Drag Him Into Politics

By RELMAN MORIN
AT Special Correspondent

In a letter to a friend after the war ended in Europe, Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote, "There is nothing I want so much as the opportunity to retire."

When asked what he planned to do after he retired from the Army, he sometimes would repeat a moss-covered Army anecdote. A retiring general answered this question by saying, "I am going to buy a rocking chair and put it on the front porch and for six months I am going to do nothing but sit. Then I am going to start rocking—slowly."

He looked forward now to peace and quiet after nearly four years of heavy responsibility, the years of organizing huge armies, planning campaigns and the stress and anxiety of battle. What he wanted was time for quiet thought, time to write his memoirs, the opportunity to live in his own home after three decades of living in Army posts, rented apartments and official residences.

High Responsibility

But another 15 years were to pass before his wishes would be fulfilled. His sense of duty compelled him to accept offices of high responsibility during that period, climaxed by the highest of all, the presidency of the United States.

In November, 1945, President Truman requested him to succeed Gen. Marshall as chief of staff. He held this post for nearly three years.

Political speculation preceded him. During the war, various persons had suggested that he should run for president. He invariably replied, "Baloney."

When he returned to Washington the Ike-for-president talk redoubled. At a news conference, he said, "All I want to be is a citizen of the United States and when the War Department turns me out to pasture that's all I want to be . . . it's silly to talk about me in politics."

On March 13, 1946, he wrote a friend, "I cannot conceive of any set of circumstances that would drag out of me permission to consider me for any political post."

Retired in 1948

So that was that—or so he thought.

He retired from the Army in 1948 having previously been named president of Columbia University. He said he knew nothing about the working of a great university but that he would try to make his contribution as "an organizer and leader."

Privately, he put himself on probation; if, at the end of a year, he concluded that he was unfit for the office, he would resign.

By no stretch of the imagination could Eisenhower have been considered an intellectual. Nonetheless, he found keen enjoyment in the academic climate at Columbia. He wrote long personal letters describing his conversations with specialists in history, economics and contemporary civilization. "You can see that living with a distinguished faculty gives me many wonderful hours," he wrote, concluding one of these letters.

Happy Time

This was a happy and rewarding period in his life.

There was one disturbing note—the Eisenhower for president boomlets that kept springing up around the country. One of these developed in New Hampshire. This brought about the well-remembered exchange of correspondence with Leonard V. Finder, a New Hampshire newspaper publisher.

Finder sent Eisenhower a copy of an editorial captioned, "The Best Man," and said in the covering letter that a "genuine grass roots movement" had started in New Hampshire. In his reply, which was widely published, Eisenhower restated his position. He began by addressing himself to the question of a citizen's duty, and wrote:

Concept of Duty

... that concept of duty which calls upon every good citizen to place no limitations on his readiness to serve in any designated capacity. But unless an individual feels some inner compulsion and special qualifications to enter the political arena—which I do not—a refusal to do so involves no violation of the highest standards of devotion to duty."

He added in the letter his belief that "lifelong professional soldiers" should not accept high political office.

Events were soon to cause him to change his mind on both counts.

In June, 1950, war returned to the world with the invasion of South Korea by six highly trained and well-equipped divisions from Communist North Korea.

Six months later, Truman notified Eisenhower of the formation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and said that, at the request of the European member nations, "I have designated you as supreme commander."

Eisenhower was reluctant to leave Columbia but his acceptance was a foregone conclusion. In a letter to a friend, he said, "Any one of us—no matter what his situation, his position or what personal sacrifices might be involved—must be ready to do his best."

He went back into uniform. For the next 14 months, basing in France, Eisenhower traveled constantly, organizing NATO forces. He called into play all his abilities, not only as a military technician but as a diplomat dealing with the heads of state in Europe. By June, 1952, he felt that NATO was an operational force and that he could return to the United States.

Meanwhile, a parade of politically minded persons had come to his headquarters outside Paris to try to persuade him to run for president, or to divine his intentions in 1952. He had said he could not conceive of any set of circumstances that would cause him to enter politics.

Russian Reasons

But by 1950, the Russians had provided those "circumstances." There was the Korean War, preceded by the Berlin blockade and other dangerously hostile acts by the Communists. Eisenhower had become genuinely worried about the outlook for peace.

He permitted his name to be entered in the New Hampshire presidential primary in March, 1952. Although he was still in Europe when the election was held, he defeated Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. In June, Eisenhower came home and announced his candidacy.

He felt that with his experience in Europe and his personal contacts with some highly placed Russians he might be able to help preserve peace.

No Doubts

He went into the campaign with no doubts that he would be nominated and then elected. That was characteristic of him, the intention to succeed, whenever he undertook to do something. And so it was. He became the first Republican president in 20 years.

In his eight years in office, Eisenhower had some notable achievements, the first civil rights act since Reconstruction days, the opening of the was Lawrence Seaway after decades of paralyzing controversy. He initiated the "Atoms for Peace" plan and startled the Soviets by offering them the "Open Skies" plan, a system of mutual inspection of military installations.

John F. Kennedy once observed that a president's performance cannot be judged until all his options in a given decision are known, the alternatives he might have taken.

Eisenhower, like every president, came under heavy criticism. But as more became known about his stewardship, many of the critics tended to change their minds.

Richard Nixon's defeat in 1960 was one of Eisenhower's greatest disappointments but he lived to see Nixon elected in 1968. Meanwhile, Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson regularly asked his advice and so did Nixon even during his last series of illnesses.

Whatever history's judgment of Dwight D. Eisenhower as a president, his contributions to the welfare of his country can only be characterized as "great."

Nixon's Brother Gets Alaska Job

SEATTLE (AP) — Edward C. Nixon, a quiet worker in his brother's presidential campaign, has been named chairman of the Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska.

His appointment to the $30,000-a-year post was announced Friday by the Commerce Department. The committee is similar to the Appalachian Regional Commission and others in various parts of the nation which coordinate federal and state programs designed to develop the economy and resources of an area.

Nixon

At Friday's regular meeting Calvin Spice, Outagamie County sheriff, will give an illustrated talk on the abuse of drugs.

Youth Fined for Kicking Auto After Drinking

The father of an 18-year-old youth who kicked a dent in a city squad car the night of March 27 after drinking with friends, said in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday that his son no longer has his state identification card.

John Huff, 1625 N. Bennett St., pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct when he first appeared in court on March 28. Judge Nick F. Schaefer had continued the case to Friday to allow police time to determine the amount of damage Huff inflicted on the squad car.

Huff was fined $25 and costs or 15 days in jail and was ordered to pay $36 damages.

The court was told that Huff had just gotten his identification card and had been drinking with friends the night of March 27, when he kicked the squad car while it was parked at a service station at N. Richmond Street and W. Hawes Avenue.

First Quarter in 9 Counties

710,602 Pounds of Surplus Foods Distributed to 28,064

NEW LONDON — Surplus foods distribution in a nine-county area during the first quarter totaled 710,602 pounds, according to compilations from United Counties Distributors (UCD) records.

During this time 28,064 people participated. Both 1968 totals are far in excess of those at the same period a year ago. The increase in poundage totaling nearly 300,000 pounds, is mainly attributable to an expansion in the available U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) surplus commodities.

March distributions totals of 242,613 pounds went to 9,653 participants. In February, 9,456 people received 239,259 pounds of food, indicating a leveling off in anticipation of returning to seasonal jobs. The commodities program is for low income families in addition to welfare participants.

In March, 1968, 6,606 participants received 147,149 pounds of commodities.

Woman Fined on License Charge

Mrs. Roy Frey, 21, 831 E. John St., Friday was fined a total of $75 and costs or 25 days in jail after she pleaded guilty of giving false information to obtain a Wisconsin identification card and improper use of license plates.

Outagamie County authorities said Mrs. Frey used her friend's birth certificate to obtain an identification card at the register of deeds office Oct. 25. She was not 21 years old at the time. Mrs. Frey had pleaded innocent, but changed her plea Friday.

Appleton police brought the license charge. They ticketed her Jan. 25 in the 800 block of S. Oneida Street.

Fox Cities Below Normal

March This Year Was Colder, Drier

Temperatures and precipitation both were below normal in the Fox Cities for the month of March.

J. C. Kurtyka, weather observer for Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., reports the monthly precipitation total of 0.97 inches was nearly an inch below normal.

The largest amount of precipitation came on March 20 when 0.45 inches of rain fell. The 1.2 inches of snowfall for the month was the third lowest on record and 8.5 inches below normal for March.

Normal Snowfall

Statistics for the winter season show that the cumulative snowfall was 40.9 inches, only 0.7 inches below normal. December and January, however, accounted for 39.2 inches of the total.

Despite the fact that the March mean temperature was only 2.5 degrees below normal, a cold wave during the week of the month dropped temperatures to record lows. The last three days of the month had record lows of 8, 6 and 7 degrees. The month's high temperature was 54 degrees on March 18 and the low was 3 degrees on March 11.

Prevailing winds came from the northwest at 7.4 m.p.h. The peak wind gust of 41 m.p.h. came on the 24th.

Normals for April are a mean temperature of 44.1 degrees, 2.6 inches of precipitation and 1.6 inches of snow.

More Daylight

The mean temperature will rise from 37 degrees the first of the month to 53 degrees on April 30.

Daylight hours will increase from 13 hours and 42 minutes at the start of the month to 15 hours and 10 minutes on April 30. In addition, Daylight Saving Time goes into effect on Sunday, April 27.

The U.S. Weather Bureau says the Fox Cities can expect near normal temperatures and moderate precipitation during April.

Alcoholic Says He's Just 'a Simple Soul'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm married to an alcoholic who refuses to admit he has a problem. He says I'm a nut who has a "fix" on whisky because my father was a drunk. In addition to his hideous hangovers, I've witnessed an endless parade of women in his life because everything and anything looks good to a boozed up Lothario.

Last night he said, "You might as well face facts, Inez. I'm in and you're out. To be in, I must unloose his creative mind and let his imagination run free. Some need marijuana, some need speed or meth or LSD. I'm a simple soul," he added sanctimoniously. "All I need is liquor."

So, he's in. Well, I guess he is. He's insincere, infantile, inconsistent, insipid, insolent.

Landers

incompetent, insensitive, incomprehensible, incapable, insufferable, ineffective, incoherent, indecent, inarticulate, inert, indiscreet, intolerable and insolent. Just sign me — Outspoken Dear Friend: Outspoken? By whom?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son is 18 and in the first year of college. He has a good job from 2 a.m. to 9 a.m., five days a week. He doesn't pay one cent for room and board. I even borrowed $600 from a loan company to make a down payment on a car for him. (He is making the monthly payments himself.)

Last week I asked him to pay the utility bill. He acted insulted. Yet he bought his girl a ring for $650.

Should I open my mouth and ask him to help out? Twenty dollars a month would give me a lift. Or — should I keep my mouth shut and avoid an argument? — M.D.

Dear M.D.: By all means open your mouth. Unless you have lockjaw, that is — in which case, write him a note and request $25 a month. You do this kid no favor when you allow him to freeload.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Are you real or are you a computer who spits out answers when cards are slipped into a slot in your head? Whatever you are, please answer. I need to know somebody cares.

Whenever a teen-ager writes and complains because her mother is too interested in her business, I die. I'd give anything for a mother like that.

My mother ignores me. She has no interest in what I do, where I go or with whom. She couldn't care less about my school activities. Once I tried to discuss a problem that was cracking me up. She said, "I don't want to hear about such nonsense."

I know Mom will never change, but I hope you will tell the girls with "nosey" mothers how lucky they are. Too much interest is better than none. — Like Alone

Dear Like: Excessively interested mothers outnumber the disinterested at least 20 to 1. Your letter, serves a three-fold purpose. It might (a) make girls with nosey mothers feel better, (b) let the disinterested mothers know how their daughters feel, and (c) let you know that somebody cares, because here's your letter.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Cardinals and Bishops to be Less Regal

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today ordered bishops and cardinals to simplify their regalia of dress in keeping with the "simplicity, practicality and spirit of humility" emphasized by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The order, effective April 13, will make the April 28 consistory to create 33 new cardinals one of the most austere in centuries. It abolishes the use of red shoes, shoe buckles, the broad brimmed Galere hat, the red plush hat traditionally worn by cardinals, sashes with tassels and the mantelletta, a short red cape.

The new rules do not strip cardinals and lesser prelates of all their finery, but aim to eliminate the royal red, ermine and silver commonly worn by them.

The introduction states that Pope Paul issued the rules with the intention of bringing the outward forms of ecclesiastical life into closer correspondence with the changing circumstances of the times and of making them now accord better with the higher spiritual values which they should express and promote.

The Trouble-Plagued Smothers Brothers

Smothers Brothers Cancelled by CBS

NEW YORK (AP) — The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour television show has been canceled by the Columbia Broadcasting System for next season after several months of argument between the network and its stars about the program's content.

Robert Wood, president of CBS-TV said Friday that Tom and Dick Smothers had broken their contract by failing to submit Sunday's program in time for a screening last Wednesday by the network and its affiliates.

"CBS has been trying to force us into a breach of contract," Tom Smothers replied in Los Angeles. "CBS is obligated by contract to air 26 Smothers Brothers shows next season."

Not the First The brothers have disagreed previously with CBS over cuts which the network made in the show. The Jan. 5 show was dropped and an earlier one substituted after folk singer Joan Baez, who was appearing as a guest, dedicated a song to her husband who is a draft resister.

In announcing the cancellation of the show next season, Wood said that the Smothers Brothers "had consistently failed" to deliver tapes of their shows in time for the network to review them.

In his telegram to Tom Smothers Friday, Wood said the tape of Sunday's show had not been received in time to be reviewed. He said a show originally broadcast on Nov. 10 would be substituted for it.

"On the basis of our information about parts of that program," Wood said, "we believe that the program in its present form would not be acceptable." He said the network understood that the program included "at the very least . . . a monologue which in our opinion would be considered to be irrelevant and offensive to a large segment of our audience, and therefore unacceptable even if this were not the week of the Eisenhower funeral rites and even if Sunday were not Easter Sunday."

The monologue, CBS said, was by comedian David Steinberg and was described as a "sermonette," satirizing the religious lectures used by some stations to sign on or off.

A spokesman for the Smothers brothers said that Sunday's

H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, on the eve of the anniversary.

Mrs. King avoided public ceremonies during the day but did visit her husband's grave with her four children. She placed a red and white cross of flowers on the gravestone inscribed: "Free at last, free at last, thank God Almighty I'm free at last."

Ray Is Reminded

In Nashville some 300 demonstrators marched to the grounds of the Tennessee State Prison where James Earl Ray is serving a 99-year sentence for King's murder. They said their purpose was to remind Ray "of what he did."

Boston Mayor Kevin White called on Congress to declare King's birthday a national holiday. Later hundreds of Negroes held a black-only rally in King's honor, at one point asking a Roman Catholic priest and four nuns, all white, to leave.

In Alaska, a member of the John Birch Society led the opposition forces that defeated a resolution in the State Senate to ask Congress to declare King's birthday a national day of mourning.

Sen. Clyde R. Lewis, an Anchorage Republican and member of the Birch Society's National Council, said King had "contributed more than anyone else to the present campus rioting and street rioting."

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks: Instead of fighting roaches and never getting rid of 'em . . . why don't you go looking for them?

Let's find where they are laying their eggs. These will be smaller than the eraser on the end of an ordinary pencil and kinda that color too. They're critters and little devils. At least that's my nick name for 'em.

Wipe them out. They don't play hide-and-seek with me because I take my flashlight and peek every place I think they might be hiding.

You will probably find seeds of eggs around the motor of your refig. Look in that tray underneath the motor.

Using your flashlight, look above the motor! You probably will find them hanging from the lining in this cosy nook. Use your vacuum cleaner tube to suck all these up and the cobwebs too.

These meansters will lay their eggs around the motor of your refig. Look in that tray underneath the motor.

When you know that an opponent can surely win two tricks in your long suit, you may still need to decide which two tricks he wins. Make your decision logically instead of merely following an old slogan, such as "Third hand high."

West opened the ten of spades, and East put up the queen without the slightest thought. After all, don't all the textbooks tell you to play third hand high?

South shrewdly refused the first trick, and now he couldn't be beaten. East returned a low spade, and South won with the jack. Now South led diamonds, since he needed one diamond trick for his contract.

If West took the king of diamonds, he could not lead another spade. If East won the first diamond, he could set up the spades but could never regain the lead to cash them.

East should defeat the contract by playing the nine of spades at the first trick. This forces South to win the first trick with the jack.

When South leads diamonds, as he must, West steps up with the king of diamonds in order to lead his remaining spade. East sets up his long suit and gets in with the ace of diamonds in time to defeat the contract with the rest of his spades.

East's duck at the first trick is marked. West would open a low spade rather than the ten if he held 10-x-x. If West has only 10-x of spades, South must hold A-J-x and is sure to win two spade tricks sooner or later. East must therefore force South to win the first spade trick in order to leave a spade in the West hand.

Crackdown on Septic Tanks

A state crackdown on the installation of septic tanks is proposed in Governor Knowles budget bill now being reviewed by the joint finance committee of the legislature. Knowles has suggested raising the fee for permits to install septic tanks from $1 to $10, and using the additional revenue to hire inspectors to enforce the law governing septic tanks which was enacted two years ago.

There are about 20,000 new septic tanks installed in Wisconsin each year, and the total number of such installations runs into the hundreds of thousands.

And there is no question that deficient tanks are a major contributing source of pollution in the state, particularly on inland lakes surrounded by cottage and resort developments. Even though an efficient septic tank will remove most solids, it has little effect on biological oxygen demand (b. o. d.) and none at all on phosphates and nitrates. The latter provide fertilizer for the growth of algae and weeds.

New Questions About a New Canal

There have been political implications to debates over whether or how to construct another canal across the isthmus in Central America to replace the present Panama Canal. Now geophysical questions are being raised.

Carl Kisslinger, professor of geophysics at St. Louis University, has pointed out the dangers of earthquakes following the use of nuclear devices to excavate a canal. He has pointed to the high amount of seismic activity in Central America that needs no prompting. "And we know that in Nevada aftershocks have occurred following large underground explosions," Mr. Kisslinger was a member of a team of scientists which visited the Nevada test site for a shot last December. "I saw the cracks in the ground," he said. "Apparently old faults were activated by the blast."

Mr. Kisslinger has also pointed to the political problems. People in Florida have strongly opposed a plan to use nuclear devices to build a canal in Florida. "It is incumbent upon us to avoid imposing a technology on other people that we wouldn't use in our own country. It raises a serious moral question for us — the possible triggering of an earthquake in

Little Optimism in Pakistan

The collapse of the government of Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan leaves little room for optimism for progress in that country.

It is not that Mr. Ayub was a particularly inspiring or forward looking leader. He was a military man who seized control in 1958 when efforts for a representative, parliamentary government in Pakistan dissolved. Mr. Ayub did get a constitution adopted but there was little of what we would regard as civil rights guaranteed in it. Pakistan has been pretty thoroughly controlled by a relatively small group of military and business leaders in West Pakistan. And it looks as if the Pakistanis can expect more of the same.

The new military leader, General A. M. Yahya Khan, has promised the eventual restoration of constitutional government and free elections. But no date has been set for either. As usual in such situations, extending the privileges of democracy must depend upon internal security and the "maturity" of the people. There have been few government leaders of such regimes who ever come to believe that the time is ripe.

News About Appleton Churches

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 3, 1869.
A Missionary Jubilee will be held next Sabbath, the 4th inst., in the Methodist Church of this City, it being the fiftieth anniversary of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
A sermon will be preached at half past 10 o'clock by the Rev. P. S. Bennett, suitable to the occasion, and an address in the evening will be by President Steele of Lawrence University, and several others. No collection will be taken.

We understand that about $700 already has been pledged towards the purchase of an Organ for the First Congregational Church. It is said the Organ is as good as new — costing originally some $2,000. It was bought from a church in Boston and was sold to make place for a larger one. The price to be paid for sending here is $1,000. It will probably be here soon. The addition to the Congregational Church is in a very forward state — the work going on steadily.

We learn that Revs. Mr. Robinson, of the Baptist Church, and J. A. Davenport, of the Episcopal Church, have resigned their pastorates. We County as an example. All along the bay side of the peninsula a hole in the limestone rock has to be dynamited to install a septic tank. The effluent runs out through seams in the limestone into the bay with little or no filtration. The Fox River cannot be blamed for pollution in the northern reaches of the bay, yet the pollution of bay waters north of Sturgeon Bay is progressing rapidly, and the septic tank must be labelled the main offender.

Or take all the cottages along the Wolf River flowing into Lake Winnebago and the Fox. It is estimated that as much poorly treated sewerage is discharged into the Wolf as the entire city of Appleton would discharge.

Certainly the state should act vigorously to upgrade the quality of septic tank installations. But even the best septic tank provides only the equivalent of primary treatment. A new and better method of disposing of human wastes in areas where central sewerage treatment is impractical is badly needed.

another country and radioactive venting in someone else's back yard."

There are other concerns. A sea level canal would mean the intermingling of the Atlantic and Pacific waters and denizens which does not now happen as much because of the lock system in the Panama Canal. In Wisconsin we realize what happened to lake trout when lamprey eels could reach the Great Lakes with the development of the St. Lawrence waterway and the more recent invasion of alewives from the Atlantic.

There has been a lot of concern recently over the possibilities of a severe earthquake or series of them in California where part of the San Andreas Fault is located. But man's tampering with his environment, however productive it has been, is also risky. Colorado, which had no history of quakes, has had quite a few since waste materials have been poured into a vast man-made cavity in the earth.

Clearly there should be considerably more research before nuclear devices are used in Central America even if the present Panama Canal is inadequate and vulnerable to enemy attack.

tions or criticism of the new government are banned. But the problems, particularly of East Pakistan which has not shared in the country's general economic health, have not been solved at all. There is really nothing except the Moslem religion which the two sections of the nation, separated by 1,000 miles of Hindu India, have in common. East Pakistan looks toward Asia while West Pakistan is beamed toward Europe. The continued unrest among the Bengalis of India as well as those in East Pakistan does not make for promise of peace.

The new president, General Yahya, and all the other top officials are West Pakistanis. They are not likely to have the confidence of those in East Pakistan.

Experiences in almost all former colonies have demonstrated the difficulties of building representative government among those who have been held down for generations and where the mass of people have been denied educational opportunities. Despite its considerable military force, Pakistan is right now not much of a bulwark against Chinese encroachment or the development of stable political and social forces.

Glenn Stowell, Weyauwega High School senior, won first place in the FFA sectional contest. He spoke on the topic, "The Future of Agriculture."

Second place went to Harold Zetlow, Marion, and third place winner was William Schmidt, Seymour.

BY PETER ARNETT
VINH LONG, Vietnam (AP) — A political map of the Mekong delta province of Vinh Long looks like a face with a severe attack of the hives.

The clear skin is controlled by the Saigon government.

The Communist Viet Cong either control the rest of the face or are actively trying to take it over.

The whole of Vietnam is similarly blemished.

A close look at the countenance of the typical Delta province of Vinh Long points up one major problem hovering over any future political settlement of the Vietnam war: The spotty control that both sides have in the countryside.

There are claims and counterclaims, with neither side being able to offer any real substantiation. The Viet Cong can go almost anywhere at night; the government almost anywhere in day.

A large part of the population admits to paying taxes to both sides.

The issues that sway the allegiance of a village are not international or national, only local.

LED TO WAR

The difficulties of establishing control in the countryside led to the mounting of the Vietnam war in the first place.

The Saigon government attempted to spread its influence from the heavily-barricaded province capitals and district capitals.

The Communists established themselves in base areas located in jungle swamps or in remote provincial border areas where the government administration was the weakest, and attempted to fan out from there.

The peasant was caught in the middle.

In Vinh Long, the government is centered in seven districts. The Viet Cong have a similar number of base areas.

Of Vinh Long's half-million population, 200,000 of them are considered by the government to be either under Communist control or in a no-man's-land.

Captured documents indicate that the Viet Cong claim a far greater number, and by their reasoning this is probably true. The Viet Cong technique in the Vietnam war has been to gain the secret allegiance of peasants inside government spheres of influence, using them only occasionally, and letting them go about their innocent jobs most of the time.

LIVE IN 285 HAMLETS

The people in Vinh Long live in 65 villages divided into 285 hamlets located in patches of fertile ground bordering the Mekong River that splits to go around the province, or along canals. By blowing up roads and bridges years ago, the Communists managed to isolate whole populations from government influence.

In some districts the government has held only the district towns and precious little else. It is from these areas that the Viet Cong have recruited and launched forays against government installations elsewhere.

The pendulum of control swung badly for the government in the 1968 Tet offensive when nearly all the Vinh Long countryside was lost to the Viet Cong, along with 65 per cent of the population.

The government has been painfully winning the lost terrain and population back. By the beginning of March this year, American officials in Vinh Long were figuring they were back to where they were before the Tet offensive began, and were hopefully in a better position. But this still gives the Viet Cong a strong hold on the province. The peasant who makes up most of the population watches the ebb and flow of the war, suspicious of the city folk and the government, identifying only with his fellow peasants.

Both sides sensed a political settlement of the war in the

Nixon May Have Trouble Trying To Abolish Post Office Patronage

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — If President Nixon makes good his proposal to remove the post office department from the rule of political patronage, this state which has traditionally had little in the way of political job distribution in state and local government will have virtually removed the hope of a public job as a reward for party service.

Wisconsin members of Congress have long been annoyed with the nuisance of handing job patronage and especially the appointments to insignificant little post offices in county towns, and the rural mail carriers. Rep. John W. Byrnes for the Republicans and Sen. William Proxmire for the Democrats, among others, have repeatedly spoken out on the subject during their careers.

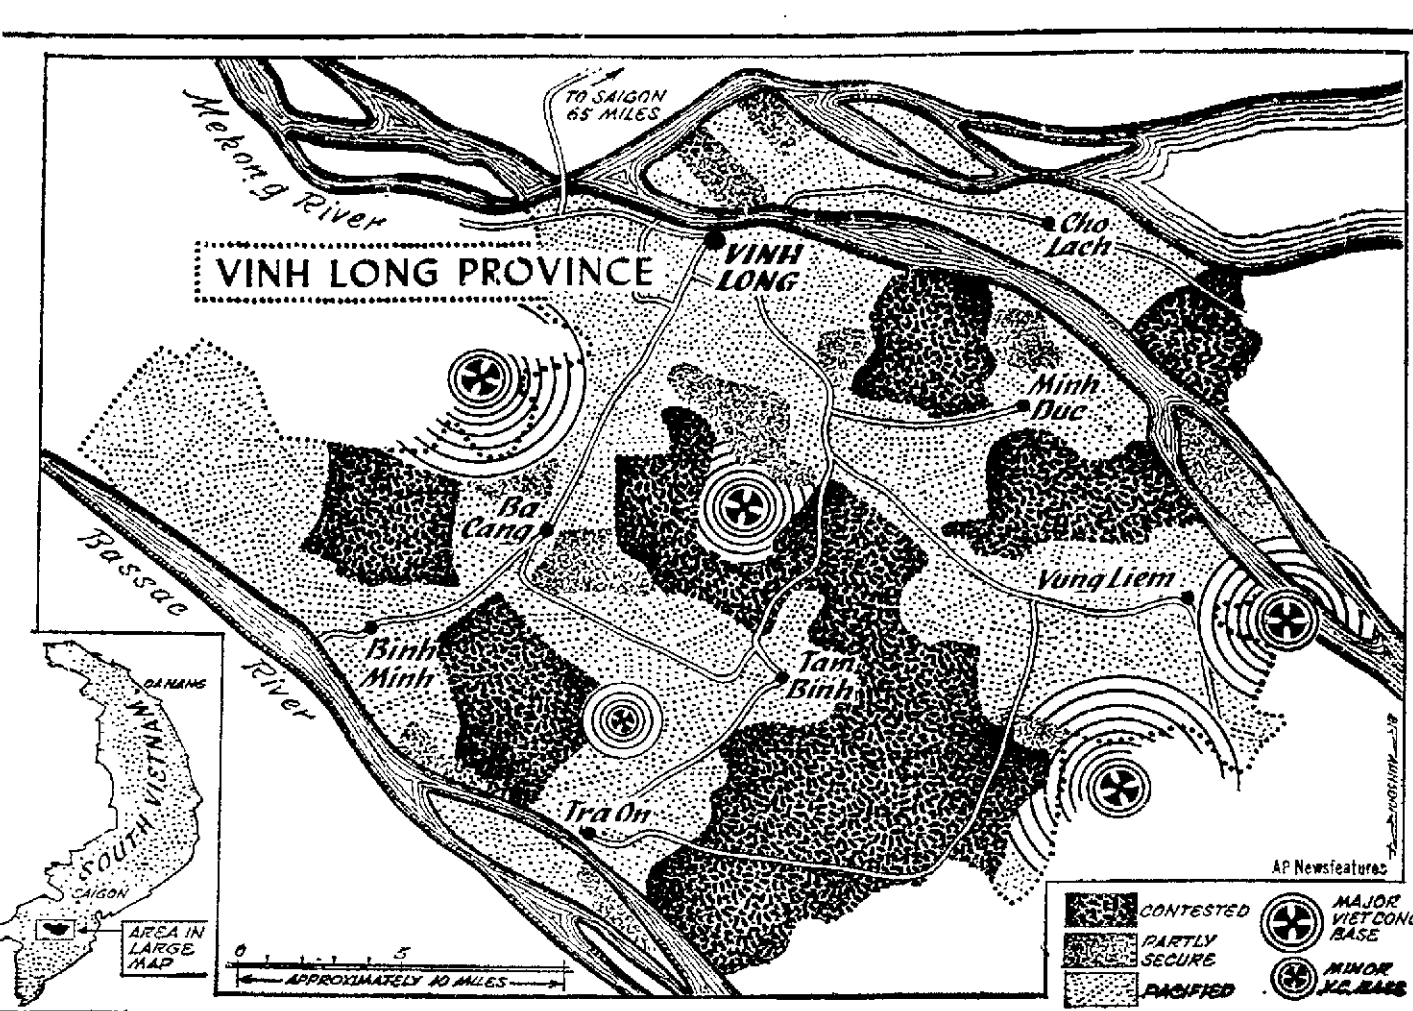

If their sentiments are typical, President Nixon should have little difficulty in getting the literal civil service system rules for post office recruitment that he wants. Besides cleansing party politics of an archaic practice, he may conceivably be contributing to an improvement of the efficiency of the postal service, which most Americans would regard as a result dearly to be desired.

MAY NOT AGREE

There can be no assurance, of course, that the Congress as a whole will agree with the President about the undesirability of postal patronage.

The Congress is ruled by Democrats, including powerful Southern Democrats representing constituencies where job patronage is one of the basic institutions of local and regional political life.

That Democratic congress-wind late last year. They geared up for the battle.

The Viet Cong began holding elections throughout Vietnam in their areas of control, publicizing the results around the world in an attempt to gain international political standing, local analysts reasoned.

The Saigon government, with American prodding, moved in to grab as much territory as possible in the "accelerated pacification" that in Vinh Long Province totalled 59 hamlets.

SEEK 90 PER CENT

The Saigon government has now launched an ambitious program to pacify 90 per cent of Vinh Long by the end of this year. The Viet Cong, on the other hand, with the spring offensive, are apparently attempting to regain some of the territory they won at Tet only to lose again.

What this means to Vinh Long is that both sides are pushing hard against the middle.

The government has amassed 10,000 troops of various categories in Vinh Long, most of them regional and popular forces. There are no American ground troops in the province, but a U. S. armored unit is operating and the province has full use of allied fighter bombers.

The Viet Cong have at least

4,000 armed men, broken up into three main force battalions of about 300 men each, and seven province companies of about 100 men. The remainder are guerrillas.

Americans believe they are slowly breaking down enemy strength, but they have said that before.

They admit that if Communist main forces now operating across the Mekong River were to switch their activities to Vinh Long, the province might well revert to the Red.

Any political settlement in Vietnam could easily come to grief in the treacherous shoals of Vinh Long and the other provinces. The Saigon government believes that by flying flags in as many hamlets as possible this will give them the authority to govern in the event of a cease-fire.

But what if a Viet Cong sympathizer pulled out the flag of his choice and felt it over his house? How should he be handled?

WHO OWNS WHAT

And there is the matter of determining who really owns what. The Saigon government moved into 59 hamlets between November and February in Vinh Long as part of the "accelerated pacification program." This merely meant the positioning of a platoon of government troops in a hamlet, with no attempt to sway the population to the government cause, or even to rout out the Viet Cong infrastructure.

There is little question that the Viet Cong still regard those hamlets as their own, and may well be targeting the government troops inside them in the spring offensive.

But on the other hand, the Viet Cong have no visible government apparatus in the areas they hold sway over in Vinh Long. Their rule is clandestine. However, the Communists claim control over some hamlets simply because the government has never been there before.

There is no evidence in Vinh Long of any mutual understanding that might make a political settlement work. The Vietnamese and U. S. authorities are working towards what they hope will be a military and political victory.

The Viet Cong are exhorting their followers to fight harder.

The Saigon government privately talks of some kind of political settlement that will eventually end the Vietnam war. And the Communists, in their captured documents, mention the same thing.

But in Vinh Long today it looks like permanent war, with neither side seemingly interested in ending it.

Highway Men Need Course In How To Dress Out Deer

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
According to an article in The Post-Crescent dated March 19, the Wisconsin Highway Department will now assume the responsibility of picking up dead deer hit by vehicles.

Are all employees of the Highway Department responsible in knowing how to dress out a deer so it may be edible? Will they deliver such carcass to the game division headquarters immediately or leave it lie on the back of a truck for hours, leaving it to spoil and become contaminated.

Admitting that only 20 per cent of said deer being picked up is edible, I sincerely believe this is being very wasteful.

If I were to hit a deer and kill the state owned animal, and if I were caught by a warden dressing it out so the meat wouldn't spoil, I would be fined approximately $100.00 plus court cost, plus my time, plus $850 damage to my car, plus $3.00 per day depreciation to my car, while under repairs, plus rental of a used car at $14.00 per day, and possible injury to myself and passengers.

Yes, if I were to place the dead deer in my automobile and take it home, I could be fined $200 plus court cost, just because one would like a taste of venison.

I would say a great percentage of deer being hit by vehicles, many of these people would gladly dress the animal, take it home, and salvage the meat.

Under the new system, I can only see a waste, and a percentage of Zero, leaving it for fertilizer.

Oh yes, we taxpayers have to pay the services of the Highway Department to serve the duties of a conservation warden to pick up such game, and no doubt deliver such carcass to a dumping grounds with the rest of the debris they pick up in their line of duties.

JOBS GO WITH PARTY

In some of the principal states of the country it is accepted as a matter of custom, if not of rule, that thousands of state or municipal officials close their desks and depart, and that thousands of representatives of the winning party come to replace them, whenever there is a change in political power.

In Illinois even a minor state elected official has more job patronage than is available in the whole of Wisconsin state and local government.

Those politicians who agree with the Nixon, Proxmire and Byrnes view would be performing a useful service by speaking out, as Patrick J. Lucey, one of the ranking men of the Wisconsin Democratic Party, has done lately on this issue.

CITIZENS LOSE IDEALS

Lucey has had plenty of experience in party politics. It may be assumed that he knows what he is talking about when he claims that idealistic persons, good citizens attracted to either party on the basis of issues and beliefs "are often repelled by the emphasis on patronage at the county level."

Others with earnest motives, he asserts, "lose sight of their

Celtics Oust 76ers, Oppose Knicks in Eastern Final Set

Lakers Down San Francisco; Rockets Pull Even With Hawks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "Philly is dead, Philly is dead," yelled Emmette Bryant, leaving unsaid the obvious: the Boston Celtics are alive again, and kicking.

The rebirth of the Celtics, who finished a dismal fourth in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association this season, came Friday night when they wrapped up their playoff semifinal against Philadelphia with a 93-90 victory for a decisive 4-1 spread in the best-of-seven series.

The Celtics now open the East best-of-seven final set Sunday on national television at Madison Square Garden against the New York Knicks, a surprise 4-0 winner against Baltimore.

Takes 3-2 Lead

In the Western Division semifinals Friday night, Los Angeles closed in on a trip into the final with a 103-98 victory over San Francisco for a 3-2 lead while San Diego evened its set at 2-2 against Atlanta with a 114-112 triumph.

Bryant thoroughly enjoyed his first playoff triumph in the otherwise quiet Celtic locker room until teammate John Havlicek, a veteran of many Boston playoff successes, told him to "cool it."

But Philadelphia's Hal Greer, another playoff veteran, couldn't believe that Philly was dead.

"Sure, they're a great team," Greer said, "but to this day, I think the better team didn't win. I can't believe it's over."

It wasn't over until Billy Cunningham missed an off-balance jumper in the last minute after the 76ers had cut an eight-point deficit to 91-90 with 1:20 left. Then Bryant and Havlicek, who totaled 22 points, hit free throws to wrap it up. Cunningham had 23 for the 76ers.

Los Angeles, which dropped the first two games of its series before winning three straight jumped to a 20-point second quarter lead, but had to hang on when Jerry West fouled out with 4:43 left and the Warriors pulled within 100-98 with 16 seconds to go. Johnny Egan dropped three freethrows to clinch the victory.

Scores 29 Points

West finished with 29 points while Joe Ellis had 23 for San Francisco, which hosts the sixth game tonight.

Elvin Hayes' desperation 18-foot shot at the buzzer made San Diego a winner after Joe Caldwell had knotted the score with two seconds left for Atlanta, which has not beaten the Rockets on the West Coast this season.

Hayes finished with 30 points, four less than the Hawks' Walt Hazzard.

The series resumes in Atlanta Sunday.

Astros Whip Boston In Exhibition Duel; Dodgers Fall, 4-3

Jack Billingham, one of Houston's replacements for disappeared Donn Clendenon, already has made his presence known to the Astros in his first appearance.

The young relief pitcher hurled two hitless innings Friday night and picked up the victory as the Astros beat the Boston Red Sox 5-2, in an exhibition game in Houston.

Only two other games, also at night, were played on Good Friday. Richmond of the International League stopped parent club Atlanta 4-0 in Columbus, Ga., and California defeated Los Angeles 4-3 in 10 innings at Los Angeles.

Billingham had just joined the Astros from Montreal in payment for Clendenon, who retired when he was traded to Houston and then unretired to sign with Montreal.

While he stopped Boston, the Astros jumped on Ray Jarvis for three runs on two walks, a hit batter, a wild pitch, a run-scoring grounder and a single by John Edwards.

Stole Show

Cecil Upshaw, Larry Maxie and Dal Roberts held Atlanta to four hits, but again the pitcher who stole the show was ageless Satchel Paige. Old Satch, 62 and retiring again after the exhibition season, pitched a scoreless first inning for the Braves. He had blanked Richmond in one inning the night before.

The Braves could shrug off an exhibition loss, but maybe not the injury of outfielder Rico Carty, trying to make a comeback from tuberculosis which Financial considerations were important in the decision to compete against each other, they said.

Teams from the two schools will meet in baseball and golf this spring and will play against each other in basketball in December.

The athletic directors said they also planned wrestling and football meetings as soon as they could be scheduled.

Dave Marr Holds GGO Lead

By KEN ALYTA GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Texan Jack Burke failed to make the 36-hole cut but his influence was being felt today as the $160,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament moved into its third round.

Burke's cousin, Dave Marr the 1965 PGA champion, got a quick lesson from Burke here last Tuesday and profited to the extent of a five-under-par 66 Friday that gave him the halfway lead with a 134 total.

Marr, who says he was "playing badly" in eight tournaments before coming here, held a two-shot lead over Gene Littler, who opened its season Friday with an 18-0 loss to Arizona in the chase for top money of $32,000.

The Sun Devils collected 21 swings here last Tuesday to tell staff. They led 5-0 after four innings, then exploded for nine runs in the fifth.

Foxes' Outfield Is Taking Shape

Club Ends Slump With Four Straight Wins; Home Night Games to Start at 7:30

Though the Appleton Foxes' lineup is being shuffled daily at their Sarasota, Fla., training base, their opening-day outfield appears two-thirds set.

Joe Bowen, one of the club's top hitters this spring, and converted pitcher Ross Sapp are likely to start the season in the Foxes' outfield, according to Manager Tom Saffell. Sapp had a short previous stint with Appleton as a pitcher.

Stu Singleton, another ex-Foxes player, also may return here in a new role. Formerly a shortstop, Singleton is now being tried at third base. Last year, Singleton had the misfortune of suffering a serious injury in only his third game of the season for the Foxes—and he was sidelined the rest of the campaign.

With some unexpected (and improbable) help—in the form of the parent Chicago White Sox' top three pitchers—the Foxes recently ended their camp slump with four straight wins over Lynchburg and a doubleheader split with the Class AA Columbus, Ga., club Gary Peters, Joel Horlen and Tommy John spent extra time in camp because of unfavorable early-spring weather and did some pitching for the Foxes.

The Foxes will be welcome here at a banquet April 24 but will open their season on the road—at Davenport against Quad Cities—April 27. The Goodland Field opener is set for May 1, against Decatur.

This season, Foxes' home night games will start at 7:30 p.m.—15 minutes earlier than last year. Sunday games are slated for 2 p.m. starts.

Occasional Baseball Feast

Milwaukeeans Ready To Show Enthusiasm

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An occasional feast instead of a steady diet is likely to be more popular with the diner. That's the opinion of baseball's irreverent detractors, and it's not appreciated in baseball-hungry Milwaukee.

The city's now-annual campaign of demonstrating its enthusiasm for the national sport got underway today with the Chicago White Sox preparing to meet the Chicago Cubs at Milwaukee County Stadium.

The Sox played a "home" game in Milwaukee against each of the other American League members last year, averaging 28,000 paying spectators at a time, and have outlined a 14-game schedule this season.

Last year's average Milwaukee turnout was better than the Sox' production in Chicago. It demonstrated that Milwaukeeans are thirsty for pro baseball in the absence of the Braves, who absconded to Atlanta after the 1965 season.

Fewer Games The turnout also raises the question: "Would baseball draw more fans per average game if League and Cleveland of the there were fewer games? Pro American League play Sunday baseball thinks not, and expand-

Rangers Risk 18-Game Home Win Streak

3 Teams Eye First Wins of Hockey Playoffs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS New York, Philadelphia and Toronto, hoping the magic of home ice will cool off their Stanley Cup playoff opponents, try tonight to come back after two straight losses in the best-of-seven hockey series.

Boston is at Toronto, Montreal at New York and St. Louis at Philadelphia. Oakland and Los Angeles will break a 1-1 tie when they meet in Los Angeles tonight.

The eight teams will be back in action Sunday, all in night games except the St. Louis-Philadelphia contest.

The Rangers, who preempt the circus at Madison Square Garden, will be returning to the scene of their current 18-game home winning streak.

Boston hasn't beaten the Maple Leafs at Toronto since 1965. As a result, the Maple Leafs have been established as slight favorites in their third game.

Major Penalties Action in first eight games produced a total of 11 major penalties, seven misconducts and four game misconducts.

It also resulted in the indefinite suspension of veteran forward Forbes Kennedy of Toronto for knocking down a lineman during an opening night brawl with Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers.

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, suspended Kennedy for three more games Friday and slapped on a $1,000 fine.

St. Louis and Philadelphia enter the third game with injuries to key players. Flyer captain Ed Van Impe, a top defenseman, refractured a broken finger during a second game fight. Van Impe sat out the first game.

St. Louis is without goalie Glenn Hall, who pulled a hamstring muscle in the first game and missed the second.

Astros, Expos Close Deal

Two Pitchers, Cash Serve as Completing Payments to Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The controversial trade involving Rusty Staub and Donn Clendenon, which turned out not to involve Clendenon, was completed yesterday when the Houston Astros obtained pitchers John Billingham and Skip Guinn plus an undisclosed amount of money from the Montreal Expos.

The final wrapup of the trade prompted by Clendenon's announced retirement last month and his change of heart Wednesday resulted in the acquisition of Staub, an outfielder-first baseman, by Montreal in exchange for Jesus Alou, an outfielder, plus Billingham and Guinn. Billingham is a highly-regarded pitcher, considered by the Expos to have been their No. 2 or 3 starting pitcher.

Clendenon, a first baseman, remains with the Expos, who obtained him from Pittsburgh in the expansion draft last Oct. 14.

At a press conference Thursday, Spec Richardson, the Astros' general manager, said the Expos had offered to send Clendenon to Houston "as late as yesterday. But the morale of our club is so high and the contract Montreal gave to Clendenon so good that we fear it could have disrupted our situation."

Richardson said that pitchers Steve Shea and Leo Marentette had been sold to Montreal and that Howie Reed, another pitcher, had been released and picked up by the Expos.

Track Season Opens April 18

Chuters Have 10 Lettermen

LITTLE CHUTE — A group of 10 lettermen — five seniors and five juniors — bolsters the hopes of the St. John High School track squad for the coming season.

The Dutchmen, who finished second in the Fox River Valley Conference outdoor meet last season, are being guided by third-year coach Lyle Bowers. About 45 prospects are currently working for varsity positions.

St. John won't officially open its season until April 18 in a duel away from home with Fond du Lac St. Mary Springs. Bowers has lined up practice meets with Kaukauna Tuesday and Hortonville for Thursday or Friday of next week.

Top returnees for Bowers include seniors Steve Hietpas (880), Joe McMahon (sprints, long jump), Mike Dercks (mile), Ken Van Eperen (low hurdles, long jump), and Jim Zornow (440, mile relay) in addition to juniors Leon Bieserveld (220, 440), Dick Brittnacher (mile), Ken DeBruin (440), Christ Hartjes (220, 880 relay), and Jerry Verhagen (high hurdles). Van Eperen is the defending FVCC champion in the long jump.

Some sophomores who should help out are Jeff Driessen (mile), Jeff Jansen (low hurdles), Tom Jansen (weights), Paul Van Groll (weights), Don Brittnacher (mile) and Ron Vandenberg (sprints).

"We should be pretty decent in the running events," Bowers says of this year's squad, "they might have to carry us because we'll be young in the field events."

Among the graduation losses from the 1968 team were star hurdler Todd Austin, miler Bob VanderZanden, and sprinter Chuck Hansen.

Austin accounted for 180 points last season and was the FVCC king in both the high and low hurdles. He was also the team's top pole vaulter and high jumper.

The schedule: April 18 — At Springs April 22 — Triangular at Pennings (Pennings, Lourdes) April 26 — Quadrangular at Lourdes (Lourdes, Springs, Roncalli)

April 30 — At Fox Valley Lutheran May 2 — At Menasha St. Mary

May 10 — Newman Class B Invitational at Wausau May 15 — Roncalli May 17 — (at Premontre) Conference Meet May 20 — At Premontre May 24 — State Class C Meet (at Milwaukee)

Sun Devils Hand Wisconsin '9' 18-0 Setback

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin baseball team, perhaps demonstrating the problems of winter training, opened its season Friday with an 18-0 loss to Arizona in the chase for top money of $32,000.

The Sun Devils collected 21 swings here last Tuesday to tell staff. They led 5-0 after four innings, then exploded for nine runs in the fifth.

Wisconsin's five hits were scattered by Arizona State's unbeaten pitcher, Larry Gura.

The Badgers have had to train for nine weeks indoors. The Sun Devils have already played 30 games, and have lost two of his first three holes Friday.

Boston Wins Despite Having An Off Night

Eastern Champion And Runnerup Both Eliminated

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The fourth-place Boston Celtics meet the third-place New York Knicks for the National Basketball Association's Eastern Playoff title starting Sunday, while first-place Baltimore and second-place Philadelphia watch on television.

That's what happens sometimes in the fuzzy world of pro sports playoffs. The Celtics and Knicks were 62 regular season games to finish first and second only to be eliminated in playoff series.

Boston did it to the 76ers Friday night, 93-90. The Celtics didn't play one of their better games, but it was good enough to win. That's one of the things that has made Boston NBA champions of the last 12 years, the ability to win on an off night. Celtics' player-coach Bill Russell was the first to admit that Boston didn't play well. "I don't think we played well, but maybe they (the 76ers) had something to do with it. They fought us all the way."

Boston closed out the 76ers 4-1 in the best-of-seven game series. The Celtics won the first three games, lost the fourth before wrapping it up before a sellout Philadelphia crowd of 15,244.

It didn't come easy. Boston led 88-76 with 5:11 remaining. The Celtics were up 90-82 with 2:48 left. Yet, when Hal Greer hit a 20-foot jumper with 1:22 on the clock, it was 91-90 and Philadelphia was on fire. The 76ers recovered a wild pass, then called time.

"We were looking for a play off the post," 76ers Coach Jack Ramsey said. "It never developed. That hurt."

What happened was that Billy Cunningham, high scorer for Philadelphia with 23 points, took an off-balance jumper from the side with 22 seconds to go. The ball hit the front of the rim and dropped into Boston hands. The Celtics then converted a pair of free throws to wrap it up.

As for the Knicks, who beat Boston six of seven games during the regular season, Russell said, "They're the toughest team in both divisions right now." New York eliminated Baltimore in four straight games.

Close Races Foreseen in AL Hand Favors Tigers, Twins

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — The world champion Detroit Tigers have looked more like also rans in Florida but once the bell rings they figure to come alive and win the American League pennant again.

The Tigers, except for a gap at shortstop, are strong all the way down the line, a bit thin in pitching but heavy with that bat.

Baltimore has been ripping everybody in Florida and winning converts to a pennant boom. If Jim Palmer continues his comeback and Frank Robinson stays healthy, they could go all the way. We'll take the Tigers but no runaway this time.

The Eastern Division, stacked with the five first-division teams of 1968, should be a wild race with the Tigers, Orioles, Boston and Cleveland in the thick of it and possible the optimistic New York Yankees. Only Washington appears completely out of it.

Seem to be Best

Minnesota and Oakland seem to be the best in the Western Division which also includes Chicago, California and the two expansion teams—Kansas City and Seattle. Picking a winner here is tougher than stabbing the top colt in a field of first time starters.

Here's the way it looks from this angle:

East		West
1. Detroit	2. Oakland	1. Minnesota	2. Oakland
3. Baltimore	4. Cleveland	3. Chicago	4. California
5. New York	6. Kansas City	5. Seattle	6. Kansas City

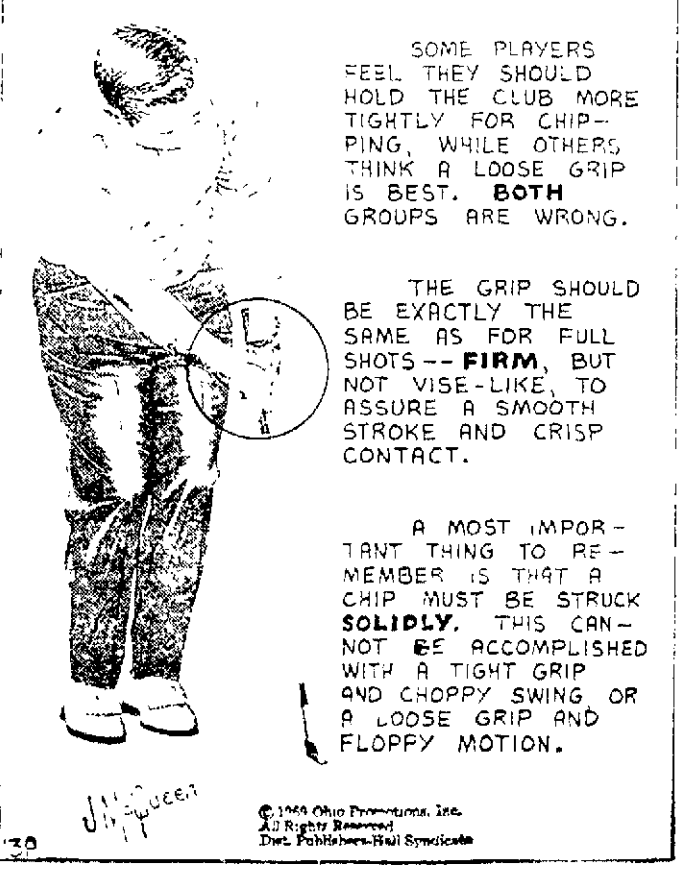

The Tigers have been losing two for every game they have won in Florida while most of their stars have been slow rounding into form.

Al Kaline and Norm Cash have been the top hitters. Both taking a 24-21 lead late in the Denny McLain and Mickey Lol first quarter, but they had to be roughed up. How survive four ties, three in the ever, they were only 14-15 in the third quarter.

Los Angeles, paced by Larry Miller's 33 points, finished in the league last spring with 17-8 fifth place in the Western Division in Florida.

Jack Nicklaus GOLF

FIRM GRIP FOR SOLID CHIPS

Baltimore has the power and defence to stay with the Tigers and they may very well have the pitching, too. Frank Robinson has been having a fine spring and the Orioles won 17 of their first 20 exhibitions.

Final Series
This race could very well come down to the final series of the season, Sept. 29-30, Oct. 1 when Detroit will be at Baltimore.

Boston has too many ifs to rate a pick at this stage. They could do it if Tony Conigliaro.

Oaks Begin ABA Playoffs
Oakland Quint Meets Denver Without Barry

OAKLAND (AP) — Without Rick Barry, the Oakland Oaks storm into the American Basketball Association playoffs tonight with confidence after closing the regular season with their sixth straight victory.

Gary Bradds, who has helped pick up the scoring slack when the Oaks lost Barry's 35-point average because of a knee operation a month ago, put in 24 points Friday night as the Oaks edged the Los Angeles Stars 111-109 at Oakland.

The Oaks, boasting pro basketball's best record of the year at 60-18, entertain Denver tonight and Sunday night in the best-of-seven series with the third-place Rockets.

In the other Western Division playoff opening tonight, fourth-place Dallas is at second-place New Orleans.

The Sox can't be counted out in this division but they have to get all the breaks to take it. Bill Rigney's California Angels wound up in a tie for eighth with the White Sox last season. Because the Sox beat the Angels 10 out of 18 in 1968, we'll give them the edge.

Seattle and Kansas City, the expansion teams, should battle for last place in their division. The Pilots may have a bit more to start with because they drafted more established players while the Royals went for youth and the future.

He packed for George Archer during George's most successful run. They won three tournaments. He drove George's car from city to city, took care of details from distances to greens, density of the rough, laundry and phone messages. Walter boogeyed a car one night when he tried to play it out of a tight ride, and, when Archer blew up, Walter blew, too.

A good caddy is not out of work any longer than any other good mechanic, plumber or electrician. They are in shorter supply than buffalos. Bruce Crampton, the outstanding Australian pro, engaged Walter at once, and, when Bruce couldn't tee up in the Hope tournament because of the flu, he sent Walter a $150 check anyway.

"The words to use with Walter are 'reliability' and 'conscientiousness,'" Crampton explained as the three of us sat in his parked car at the Greater Greensboro Open the other day. "He is out to help me make fewer mistakes. A good caddy is a companion, a comfort to you on the course. He can keep you serene and backed up. Any employer should hire the most competent help. I wouldn't use wooden sticks, so why should I use drinking caddies? I had one caddy once who called me at five in the morning to get him out of jail when I was leading the tournament."

Walter not only commands respect from the pros but from the other caddies. For one thing, he holds the caddy shed knockout record which earned him the nickname "Violence" and which Walter frowns on.

He gets $15 a day and 5 per cent of Crampton's winnings, and his ambition is to upgrade a caddy's roll in the tour to a point where it is as secure a profession as certified public accounting, where it's not a complicated form of panhandling but a career. Walter refuses to treat his dealings with a pro as master-servant relationship. He has been known to growl publicly at his man for a stupid shot.

"A man," says Walter, "has to have dignity." At night, he is a collar-and-shirt man. He sleeps in beds on tour, not seats.

Bruce Crampton won $101,005 last year — not his own five per cent of that, plus $105 a week, does not give you a carpet on the floor or a private teletype to your stockbroker, but Walter is looking forward to his first "major" tournament win. Then, he may take your case by appointment only. "I would," says Crampton, "rather give Walter the money than the government. The government can't read the breaks for you, or club you out of the rough."

Walter Tries To Upgrade Caddy's Role

GREENSBORO, N.C. — It has been an uneven spring on the golf tour for Walter Montgomery. He put it in the water a couple of times and got sick at the Hope Classic. He came close in that airplane tournament down in Miami. Would have been his seventh tournament win lifetime but he left it short at 18 and finished second. Gave himself a good talking to.

You would have to say $2,378 is not much to earn by April 1 when you're at the top of your game like Walter is.

On the other hand, that's pretty good for a guy who can't break 100.

Walter, you see, is a caddy. One of the best. It's a profession which used to rank somewhere between pinboy in a bowling alley and dishwasher in an automat. Only a few gnarled old Scotsmen at the Royal & Ancient in St. Andrews made a science out of it. In this country, you could tell a caddy by the holes in his shoes and the smell on his breath.

In Back of Car
Golf grows into a multimillion-dollar business but the caddy still sleeps in the back of the car. His wardrobe he wore. Ask him where he lives, and he would murmur "corner of 17th and Walnut." He meant, that's where he parked. Home was mobile, all right. He shaved in the reflection of a creek. He never needed a knife and fork for anything he ate. If he said his place was "French Provincial," it meant he had a Peugeot.

The pro was someone who blamed him when he lost and forgot him when he won. A bad round was 18 holes of helpless rage for a caddy. That was not just a ball going out of bounds. That was busfare to the next tournament.

Rules are Stacked
They stacked the rules against him. He could not pack for the same guys more than two rounds in a row. He could not pack in the summer. Good players would not admit they ask their caddies anything but what time it was — or what city it was.

Caddies have wrecked more scores than a bad grip. They have cost guys tournaments by illegally raking traps, putting their bags down where rival players could hit it. They have misread putts, arrived late, dropped a player's sticks in the middle of a round. Some of them are as temperamental as opera stars.

Walter Montgomery came out of the canebrakes of Louisiana 10 years ago, not knowing a chip from a putt. A spoon was for coffee, a "birdie" had feathers.

He got so nervous en route to his first victory — with Bob Goalby in the Coral Gables Open of 1960 — that, when Goalby was nestling on the green, needing only two putts for a win, Walter accidentally kicked his ball off the green!

The only way to top this is by knocking your fighter over the head with a sash weight between rounds on a title fight. Goalby won — and Walter hasn't stepped on a ball since. At least, not accidentally.

Walter, who has the physique of a prizefighter, was one who set out to lift caddying above an occupation where you kill time between rounds. When he "looped" for a player, he got up at daylight to go out and check pin placements as soon as the holes were cut. He measured distances as meticulously as though he were testing for a hotel site.

He packed for George Archer during George's most successful run. They won three tournaments. He drove George's car from city to city, took care of details from distances to greens, density of the rough, laundry and phone messages. Walter boogeyed a car one night when he tried to play it out of a tight ride, and, when Archer blew up, Walter blew, too.

Division Setup Helps Oakland Favored in American League's Western Division

By RON RAPOPORT
MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Oakland Athletics, who no longer have to bump heads with the American League's best ball clubs, are solid favorites to capture the championship in the league's West Division.

No team in baseball has benefited more from the split into two divisions the American League underwent during the Sal Bando, who played every winter and no team seems ready to take advantage of its good fortune.

The top five teams in the league last year—Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, Boston and New York—are in the East Division, so sixth-place Oakland only has to contend with Minnesota, Chicago and California in its circuit. Forget about expansion Seattle and Kansas City.

The Athletics are a solid ball club in any event, with the best young pitching in the league, some fine hitting and many good years ahead of them.

"I think we've got a chance at the pennant," says Manager Hank Bauer. "Certainly the divisional setup helps."

Young Pitchers
Any discussion of the Athletics must begin with its young group of starting pitchers: Jim Nash, 24; Jim Hunter, 23; John Odum, 24, and Chuck Dobson, 25. Odum won 16 games last year, Nash and Hunter 13 each and Dobson 12.

Relief pitching is a problem, though, with the loss of Jack Aker and Diego Segui in the expansion draft. Lew Krausse, whose experience has been mainly as a starter, will be in the bullpen, along with Ed Sprague, Paul Lindblad and possibly veteran Jack Baldschun.

Danny Cater, the league's second leading hitter last year with a .290 average, is set at first and Dick Green, a good fielder, Oakland Athletics, who no longer have to bump heads with the American League's best ball clubs, are solid favorites to capture the championship in the league's West Division.

Phillips suffered a broken bone on the inside of his hand March 13 when hit by a pitched ball. Dr. Suker estimated that Phillips will be able to function at full capacity in about 10 days.

Sifford Complains After Heckling at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — it nigger," said George Walsh, Negro professional Charlie Sifford indicates he may never play in the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament again after the heckling he received during the tournament's second round Friday.

"This used to be a damn good tournament," said Sifford, formerly of Charlotte, N.C., but now of Los Angeles. "But it isn't worth a damn anymore."

His remarks came after four spectators were ushered from the Sedgefield Country Club course for allegedly heckling golfers. Sifford was the target of most of the abuse, club officials said.

"When Charlie was putting, after the stroke, some members of the gallery were yelling 'Miss short putts,'" he said.

Shortly after the incident, tournament officials issued a prepared statement in which they apologized to Sifford. "Charlie Sifford has always been a favorite of Greensboro golf fans," the statement said. "Indeed a warm relationship has developed between Mr. Sifford and the GGO."

Pro Al Geiberger said the fans were saying some "pretty nasty things," but that he didn't believe the insults were racial. "They were just picking on after the stroke, some members of the gallery were yelling 'Miss short putts,'" he said.

He packed for George Archer during George's most successful run. They won three tournaments. Talented Actors Star In 'Becket'

BY TV SCOUT
8-11 — Channel 5 — Saturday Night at the Movies serves up the best feature of the evening, despite its being a rerun. It's the extraordinary production of "Becket," starring Richard Burton and Peter O'Toole. It's almost impossible to tell which of the stars gives the better performance. O'Toole is the essence of frustration as England's King Henry II; Burton, the picture of dedication as his Archbishop of Canterbury. The excellent supporting cast includes Sir John Gielgud, Pamela Brown, Sir Donald Wolfit and Marita Hunt. A 1964 release.

4-5:30 — Channel 11 — ABC's Wide World of Sports, which had announced it would carry the postponed Frazier-Zyglawicz championship fight, switched instead to the Atlanta, (Ga.) "500" Stock Car Race and the World Ice Dancing Championship from Colorado Springs, Colo.

6:30-7 — Channel 5 — Adam 12 offers a potpourri of problems that beset a policeman in his typical day. These include a little lady whose fur piece has been lifted; a raucous party that must be calmed down and a baffling couple engaged in a feud of a family brawl.

8:30-7:30 — Channel 2 — The Joneymooner segment is again the feature of The Jackie Gleason Show, although it just barely edges Victor Borge for that distinction. In his one, the talon's patience is put to the most exasperating of tests when Norton and Trixie move in with the Kramdens while the paint in their place dries. Also on the bill: Frank Sinatra Jr. and Orson Bean.

7-7:30 — Channel 5 The episode should be titled "99 Gets smart," since that's what happens (again) tonight. The comedy CONTROL agent provides the rescue tonight in a situation involving only by the highest of motives, the possibility of getting married.

7:30-8 — Channel 2 — Steve becomes an amateur marriage counselor on My Three Sons, but it's the triplets who provide the answers. A young couple with a baby call on Steve to help settle their marital problems. But before he can straighten the situation out, the bell rings for that frantic hour when the triplets are fed.

7:30-8 — Channel 5 — The host and Mrs. Muir starts its reruns with its debut episode, which has everyone normally introduced before Captain Regg's presence begins to make itself known. (R)

8-8:30 — Channel 2 — Hogan takes a page from the days of the convertible gambling room at the beginning of the reruns in Hogan's Heroes. A pretty castapo agent infiltrates his and comes up with enough information on tunnels, maps, statistics and Sgt. Schultz to hang the whole barracks.

8:30-9:30 — Channel 11 — Bing Crosby is the natural selection for host of The Hollywood Palace to close out the first run alone. Crosby brings on his son Bill. Another good guest is lovely Sally Ann Hawes. In addition, there's comedian Shel Berman and The Four Tops.

9-10 — Channel 2 — Mannix ally gets himself in a hairy n-around involving a few of the heavier moneybags in Las Vegas. He refuses to take on a agent who has a quarter million gambling skim and fears for his life. While telling the man doesn't want the job, another, who arranged the meeting, takes a bullet intended for the would-be client.

might even be able to summon forth a few chuckles.

But when Cosby recalls a tussle with his brother Russell over a blanket it becomes an epic struggle in what is billed as television's longest uninterrupted comedy routine. The monologue, called "Russell, With Whom I Slept," runs about 22 minutes in "The Second Bill Cosby Special" on NBC Wednesday.

To find out more about this monologue Cosby was engaged in a dialogue:

Brother Real
Do you really have a brother name Russell?

"I usually have everything I talk about. Comics come out with so many wild ideas and so many wild things I think it's very difficult for people to believe me when I say this really did happen. Even though part of it happened to them. I really had a brother. I really had a bed. I really had a bedroom. I really had a father."

Do you recall things as being funny when they happened or funny the way you retell them?

"They're not really funny things that people would laugh at. I make them funny because that's the way I draw them. I draw the father character as a huge human being and the kids as small people who are lying to protect their hides."

Look Back With Smile
Some comics say comedy comes out of unhappiness. Do you agree with that?

"I would try to draw it out this way. At that particular moment it happened, when the sad thing struck, there's only one way to look at it, and that's in an unhappy vein. But the healthy part about all of us is the ability to look back on things and kind of smile."

You mean like looking back on the Army, for instance?

"Oh, yeah, but there was nothing really funny about it. It was very serious. I remember one day the reality of it—I was on guard duty and I was so sleepy, man, I wanted to cry. Now that I look back on it I have to smile, but while it was happening there was no laughter there at all."

Why didn't he do any Army routines? "Well, because I was in the Navy."

Other Questions
You were censored recently on "The Tonight Show." How do you react to censorship?

"If they say it's too dirty or if they don't like it, then I'll take it out. Censorship usually doesn't touch me, but they said a lot of things about Noah and the Ark being sacrilegious."

Can comedy help in racial understanding?

"Maybe we can teach people something without having to come out and hit them over the head. People can learn from it, you know, if we can show it in a positive manner."

Soviet Audience Gives Minnesota Band Big Ovation

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — The University of Minnesota concert band played six encores for an enthusiastically applauding audience Thursday night in its first appearance in the Soviet Union.

A near-capacity crowd at the Leningrad Philharmonic Society all gave its biggest ovation to Stanford Freese for his tuba solo in "Concertina for Tuba and Symphonic Band" by the Minnesota conductor, Frank Beniciscutto.

Two marches by John Philip Sousa also were especially well liked by the Soviets. The program featured music by American composers, including Leonard Bernstein, Peter Mennin, and Australian-born Percy Grainger.

After the performance some young members of the audience rushed up to the stage to talk with the Americans for half an ing Games, once at 8:15.

Lawrence Radio Station Announces 1969-70 Staff

WLFM, Lawrence University WLFM's campus-limited AM student operated radio station, announces its management staff for the 1969-70 school year.

Effective this month, Frank R. Duchow, a sophomore from Sheboygan, becomes the new general manager.

FM program manager is Oshkosh junior Shawn Duffy. Junior Gary Pientka, Milwaukee, is the FM operations manager. Craig Nienaber, Edina, Minn., has been named manager of hour. The 54-member band arrived in Leningrad Tuesday, but its instruments were delayed a day. The students toured the old czarist capital Thursday morning then rehearsed in the afternoon.

The band is to give four concerts in Leningrad, with a day off Saturday, and then travel to Moscow for two concerts starting April 10. Altogether, it will appear in 10 Soviet cities during a seven-week tour.

Duchow replaces Chris Bowers as head of the facility, moving up from his post as FM operations manager.

Duffy was FM music director during the past year. Pientka has served both as assistant AM manager and AM manager, and Nienaber has served as sports director and assistant general manager since coming to Lawrence.

Bowers, a junior from Edina, Minn., will remain active on the news staff and will serve as student advisor.

The FM phase of the Lawrence station serves an estimated 500,000 potential listeners with its 10,500 watt, educational, stereo programming. It operates from 2 p.m. until midnight seven days a week.

The AM operation is heard only within Lawrence living units and features simulcasted FM shows and seven additional music hours.

County Still Seeks Second Assistant DA

Spring Law School Graduate Sought for $11,500 Position

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County is looking for its second full-time assistant district attorney until late this spring.

District Attorney Fink said the search for the second assistant is being handled by the county board. The county board is looking for a person who has passed the bar exam and has a law school diploma. The salary for the position is $11,500 a year.

The board authorized the second assistant at a salary of $11,500, some $3,000 of which will be paid by the state. There is now one full-time assistant in the district attorney's office.

Interviews for the second position were started early in January but thus far no one has been found for the job. Fink said one applicant had accepted the job but then later changed his mind.

Fink said he has now decided to wait until the spring law school graduates are available since it would probably be at least a month before anyone would start on the job even if someone were hired in the next few weeks.

Student Gets Probation For Possession of Drugs

OSHKOSH — Dean Scott Anderson, 18, Milwaukee, a student at Oshkosh State University, received a suspended sentence of six months and was placed on probation for three years after he pleaded guilty in county court of possession of dangerous drugs.

Anderson originally had been charged with possession and use of marijuana but the charge was amended Thursday.

Circuit Court Awaits New State Budget

OSHKOSH — The bill to move the joint finance committee and up the date of the creation of the second branch of the circuit court from Jan. 1, 1970, to July 1 of this year will probably not be acted upon until after the state budget has been adopted.

Assemblyman Jack D. Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, author of the bill, said the proposal is now in the Legislature's joint finance committee which is also considering the budget.

Steinhilber said unless a bill has an emergency financial note attached to it, the committee will hold it until after the budget. The court bill does not have an emergency fiscal tag on it.

Assemblyman David O. Martin, R-Neenah, is a member of the joint finance committee and is "keeping an eye" on the bill, Steinhilber said.

Steinhilber also had authored the amendment to the original omnibus court bill which created the second branch of the circuit court.

The newly-elected judge of the court, Edmund Arpn, Neenah, will be sworn in as judge as soon as the court goes into effect, either July 1 or Jan. 1.

Present plans being considered are to alter the county board room on the fourth floor of the courthouse to serve as a courtroom for the new circuit branch.

A jury box would have to be added and several other minor alterations made.

2-Day Rehabilitation Conference Set at Winnebago State Hospital

OSHKOSH — The State Division of Vocational Rehabilitation will conduct a two-day conference Tuesday and Wednesday at Winnebago State and Winnebago County hospitals.

The program will begin with a review of the state hospital, an introduction to the alcoholism program, followed by a discussion on chronic schizophrenia. The afternoon session at the state hospital will include a discussion of the division's case work at the hospital and in the alcoholism program.

Concluding the first day will be a panel presentation of the inter-relationships of the Winnebago County Comprehensive Mental Health Center.

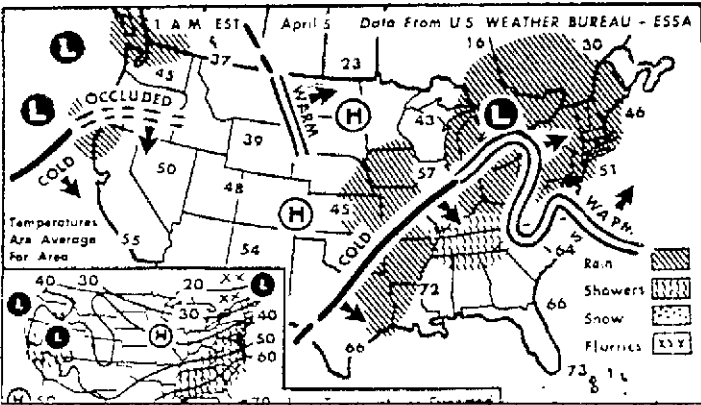

Wednesday's activities will begin with a tour of the state hospital's geriatric services, children's and adolescent units and Picnic Point Camp Lodge.

Following the tours, the conference will reconvene at the county hospital for a tour of nursing and activity areas. The group will observe a daily staffing meeting for patients by members of the treatment team.

Middle House Tour

A tour of the middle house, a two-bedroom home used for training and evaluation of patients in the rehabilitation program, and a panel presentation of industrial therapy, social services, vocational rehabilitation and the general function of the county hospital will end the conference.

The conference is part of a three-week institute sponsored by vocational rehabilitation and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, to provide field counselors with experiences for the effective rehabilitation of the mentally ill.

Legislative Bills in Madison

Sen. Draheim Gives Forewarning

MENASHA — Two weeks ago, city officials complained that notice of legislative hearings is too short for municipal governing bodies to send representatives or to adopt positions before hand.

Friday, Mayor John Klein received a letter from Sen. William Draheim, R-Neenah, saying the mayor needs three weeks' notice of a hearing in Madison and sending copies of legislation coming up for consideration.

Draheim could not be reached at his home for comment, but Klein speculated the state senator's action may have been in response to published reports of local complaints.

I am doing this at this time to give you advance notice of the hearing and for you to be given an opportunity to better learn the contents of the bills on which the hearing will be held, Draheim wrote. It is set for 1:30 p.m. April 23.

Two Bills

He enclosed copies of two bills coming before the senate and one assembly bill and an amendment. The subject matter is all related to local government, stemming chiefly from the recent Tarr Task Force report on local government reorganization.

Local and regional planning, incorporation of isolated cities and villages and the system of forming or expanding municipalities are subjects of the bills.

The matter of short notice of legislative hearings was raised during recent common council discussion of the city's membership in the Alliance of Cities.

Lobbying Group

Though the Alliance was formed largely as a lobbying group to press for laws favorable to municipalities, local aldermen complained that the mayor has been notified too late to report on pending legislation so the council could choose its position and notify the alliance or send a representative to Madison.

Ald. Sumner Parker attended an alliance meeting a week ago for the mayor, who was out of town on city business and Parker took the city's complaint to the alliance. The reaction from other city officials, Parker told the council this week, was generally that past attempts to require more advance notice from the Legislature had been unsuccessful and that chances of reform in the future also seem scant.

Controversy Continues On Floodplain Lot Sizes

OSHKOSH — The question of the lot size provision in the ordinance which is more re-minimum lot size in areas coming under floodplain and request in a letter to County shoreland zoning provisions in Corporation Counsel Gerald Eng-Winnebago County still remains unsettled as neither county nor state officials appear willing to make concessions at this time.

The county's shoreland zoning ordinance is still unapproved by the state as a result of the impasse.

The state requires a minimum lot size of 20,000 square feet in areas under shoreland zoning and a minimum frontage of 100 feet in areas not served by public sewer. The county's ordinance specifies a minimum frontage of 80 feet and a lot size of 16,000 square feet.

Since last October the state has asked the county to change

Public Hearing The state requires that when a public hearing on the subdivision ordinance will not be approved until the change is scheduled for April 15 at the courthouse.

County officials maintain, however, that despite allowing a three or more lots of 1½ acres smaller lot size, the shoreland zoning ordinance meets the Department of Natural Resources' be given.

Under the proposed county ordinance, a sub-division is created when three or more lots of five acres or less are sold within a five-year period. The ordinance also calls for approval of the planned sanitary system before a plat can be approved.

Prior to the county's adoption of its shoreland zoning ordinance, a series of hearings were conducted by the county zoning committee with the minimum lot size creating the greatest problem.

At the same time, they feel there is no indication as to their hand will be further strengthened when the county take to get approval of the passes its subdivision control ordinance.

Police Catch Youth Breaking Into Machine

MENASHA — A 17-year-old youth caught with his hand in a cigarette machine tried in vain to alibi his way out, then admitted he was trying to break into the machine, police said.

A patrolman cruising in a squad car noticed the youth in a local laundromat at 2:12 a.m. Friday. The policeman summoned another officer and after observing the youth for a while, they entered the building.

Police said the youth was kneeling in front of the cigarette machine with his hand in the slot where the cigarettes come out.

At first he said he had put in his money and failed to get his cigarettes. Confronted with evidence that other machines had been tampered with, he admitted trying to break in and was turned over to his father's custody, pending further action by juvenile authorities.

Fire Badly Damages Neenah Man's Auto

A 1960 auto was extensively damaged about 2:30 p.m. Friday when a fire broke out in the engine compartment while the car was parked at 1025 W. Bell Ave.

The auto was owned by James Hagen, 641 Oak St., Neenah. Firemen said the wiring was destroyed.

Firemen answered a call at 3:55 p.m. Friday at the home of James Foster, 1811 S. Telulah Ave., where a short in the wiring caused an oven fire.

Shelter House Struggle

Aldermen Quizzed on Island Park

NEENAH — The park and recreation commission, puzzled as to what the city council wants and will spend for an island park shelter, has asked the city council to question the shelter's cost.

The shelter has been sought since May of 1968, but it was not until this year that the park and recreation commission took bids. Last fall, $8,000 was budgeted for the building but when the bids came in over the budget, councilmen turned it down. William Miller, parks and recreation superintendent, asked the city council to question the shelter's cost.

Aldermen turned down a park and recreation recommendation to build a $10,000 shelter house at the park on the contention that it was too much to pay for an "outhouse".

spring and close later in the fall to accommodate fishermen.

One of the council complaints was on the $3,400 for extending municipal services to the building. Members asked why it couldn't be built closer to the street to cut this cost.

In a letter to the council, Starkie Swenson, commission chairman, explained, "Moving the building closer to the street would not materially reduce the cost of the shelter. It could create a traffic hazard as the building would block the view of the railroad tracks."

Placing it closer to the abutting private property on the east would be an "unreasonable imposition to this neighbor," Swenson said.

Door-to-Door Selling Costly For 3 Youths

MENASHA — Three Madison youths, each 19, paid $35 each on stipulations of guilt for charges of violating the Green River ordinance by door-to-door selling in the city on March 25.

The three are Tom O. Morgan, Kenneth J. Van Dyke and James R. Waddell.

Menasha police brought the cases before County Judge James V. Sitter during Wednesday's court session in Neenah.

Charles F. Quire, 46, 612 Main St., Neenah, was found guilty of driving left of the center of a roadway and was fined $40 plus costs.

Charged with allowing a dog to run loose, Susan Rochon, 507 River way, was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, but the sentence was stayed after she informed the court she was planning to move away.

Viola Hedtke, 52, 96 Ladke St., Neenah, stipulated guilt and forfeited $29.50 on a charge of obstructing an officer.

Home Construction Continues Despite Interest Rate Hikes

The tight money squeeze brought about by rising interest rates failed to dampen new residential construction in Appleton during March. Permits were issued for 29 housing units.

Building Inspector Richard Atkins said permits added up to $485,500 in value.

Overall, however, it was a slow month for building. All new construction was priced at $777,290, falling behind the comparable period a year ago by more than $200,000.

Permits were taken out last month for four commercial projects costing $286,400.

Strike Felt

Fifteen of the new homes are being constructed in connection with a southside development undertaken by Fox Valley Builders. The new residences are going up on Layton and Sylvan Bay avenues.

Construction permits are for general construction.

The valuation of electrical work tied in with all March construction projects was $163,000.

White Sox Tract at Brothertown It's Time to Stock Baseball Camp

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

BROTHERTOWN — It won't be long before campers arrive at the Chicago White Sox Camp here.

The ranger, Hubert Schmidtkofer and his wife, Sal, are making preparations for the invasion. Manager George Sobek is scheduled to arrive this weekend to look over the camp, a 61-acre wooded tract bordering Lake Winnebago.

Sobek, a veteran Big Ten basketball official, has played and managed minor league baseball clubs for the White Sox organization and was an All-American basketball player at Notre Dame.

The Schmidtkoers have been caretakers at the camp since its start six years ago. They live in an apartment that is part of the main dining hall-trading post complex.

Mrs. Schmidtkofer, who is the chief cook, has been busy this week placing mammoth orders for food to fill the larder. Cooking for about 250 boys at a time is obviously no small chore, but Mrs. Schmidtkofer takes it in stride. She has had experience in restaurants and cooking for church dinners. Seven women assist her.

Schmidtkofer, who operated taverns in Chilton for 30 years before taking over at the camp, has the responsibility of keeping the grounds and buildings in order and generally overseeing the property.

The Camp is open to boys 10 through 16 years of age. Purpose of the camp is to provide expert instruction in the fundamentals of a variety of sports and camping, with emphasis on "sportsmanship."

Four Sessions

Two two-week and two three-week sessions are planned this year, beginning June 22 and ending August 30.

Sports at the camp include basketball, tennis, touch football and baseball. In 1965, a nine-hole golf course was completed and now youngsters also learn golfing.

Tent camping is handled at High Cliff State Park, where the boys go with counselors. They also participate in horseback riding, swimming, boating, fishing, volleyball, badminton and soccer. Athletes, who are experts in their field, serve as counselors.

The campers stay in 12 cabins which each house 16 boys and two counselors. Boys are assigned to quarters according to age. They are required to have physical examinations before being accepted and a registered nurse is on duty at all times. Religious services for all faiths also are conducted.

Family days are big days at the camp. The second Sunday of each session is set aside for the visitors. Barbeued chicken is served at a picnic style meal. Swimming meets, all-star baseball and basketball highlight the programs. A

Calumet Body Considering County Relief

Social Services Board Requests Local Opinions on Suggestion

The Calumet County Board of Social Services is giving serious consideration to establishing a county system of relief — one of the recommendations stressed in the Tarr Task Force committee report.

Presently there is a bill pending in the Legislature to eliminate the local relief or unit system and make countywide relief programs mandatory.

Florence Woelfel, director of the Calumet County Department of Social Services, has sent letters to public officials and civic leaders throughout the county asking them to make their opinions known to legislators from their respective districts.

Provisions of Bill

The pending bill would provide for:

—County administration of relief by the county Department of Social Services, as it is known in Calumet County, or county welfare departments in other parts of the state.

—Uniform statewide standards as established in the Social Security aid programs.

—A more uniform interpretation of dependency relating to general relief.

—State cost-sharing on program and administration.

"The Wisconsin Public Welfare Association, which has long advocated the implementation of a mandatory county system of relief has prepared a fact sheet on needed changes in the present relief system, which the pending bill would do and what passage of the bill into law would mean," Mrs. Woelfel said.

She explained the board of social services wanted to know what the feelings of Calumet County residents are in regard to a countywide relief system.

Request Discussion

The request was made to the board of social services by the local town board, village and city council meetings, and to make opinions known to Calumet County Board supervisors representing their respective municipalities.

The second precinct of Appleton's 9th Ward is in Calumet County.

In Appleton, strong opposition to the county system of relief comes from Merton Ehrlicke, the city's relief director, whose office would be closed and operations absorbed into the county program.

Ehrlicke claims relief can best be administered on a local basis and cites his department as an example of efficiency and economy because of the "home rule" operation.

On the other hand, Mayor George Buckley has been pushing for administration of all relief on a county basis.

He has asked officials of the Outagamie County Board to consider a takeover of local relief programs.

At last count, 41 counties have dropped the unit system in favor of countywide administration of relief services.

The fact sheet of the Wisconsin Public Welfare Association, which Mrs. Woelfel enclosed with her letter, says the present general unit relief system demands change because:

—It does not provide distinct guidelines for either need determination or establish standards for allowances.

—There is no provision for social services to be rendered to a segment of the population which would benefit from such services.

—It makes it impossible for more than 1,200 individual units to administer "a complicated and expensive system." Many of these units reportedly do not have personnel which can understand the complicated rulings in determining legal settlement, an integral part of the program.

—Passage of the county system of relief would make many improvements, it was claimed.

To Lessen Deficit Assembly Bill Would Give Unclaimed Property to State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A bill providing for the transfer of unclaimed property to the state has been introduced into the Legislature as a means of lessening an anticipated state budget deficit.

The bill would provide an estimated gain to the state treasury of $15 million a year, according to calculations by the state department of justice. The bill was introduced in the Assembly by the rules committee.

Such a gain for the state treasury would help the Legislature to bridge a budget revenue gap, and reduce slightly the risk of alienating the voting electorate.

Similar to Others

The bill proposes a rule similar to those now in effect in some other states, including near-by Indiana and Michigan, and would provide that the state shall be the custodian of funds unclaimed by owners for 10 years which are held by financial organizations, life insurance companies, utilities, fiduciaries, business associations and others, or for 15 years in the case of traveler's checks.

Under present law, some unclaimed funds are forfeited to the holder.

The bill would provide that unclaimed property could be recovered at any time by the owner or heirs, and that the state of the owner's last known address is entitled to the unclaimed funds or property.

The state treasurer would administer the act, and publish notices and reports of unclaimed property. The state could sell the receipts in the state school fund, or the state general tax fund, according to the decision of a court.

Takes Cash as Victims Sleep Bold Bedroom Burglar Strikes

Police are investigating reports of two Appleton residents that their homes were entered and money was taken from their bedrooms while they slept.

There also have been reports of four purses and scattered contents found in separate locations in the city.

Walter Raddatz, 1200 W. Parkway St., told police that someone entered his home about 12:45 a.m. today and stole his wife's purse from her bedroom. Raddatz said his wife was awakened and saw the burglar leave with her purse, which contained $17, a checkbook and other papers.

The burglar, described as a young male of thin build, apparently entered through an unlocked back door and took the purse from the downstairs bedroom. He reportedly was carrying a small flashlight.

John Falcus, 119 W. Lawrence St., reported to police Friday that someone entered his home late Thursday night or early Friday morning and stole his wallet from his trousers pocket. He said his trousers were in the small sewing room where he was sleeping. His rear door was unlocked, he said.

Falcus said he had retired about 11 p.m. Thursday. The wallet was recovered in a roadway but the money, about $50, was gone.

Police reported that purses and contents strewn near them had been found this morning near N. Douglas and W. Parkard streets, 700 E. Summer St., and on W. Eighth Street and near 1513 W. Parkard St.
